Delivery Guarantee: If the mailer submits an item at a designated USPS® Priority Mail Express™ acceptance location prior to or before the specified positioning time, the Postal Service™ will deliver or attempt delivery to the addressee or agent before the applicable time. The signature of the addressee or the addressee's agent is required upon delivery, when requested by the mailer. If the Postal Service does not deliver or attempt delivery by the specified time and the mailer files a claim for a refund, the Postal Service may refund the postage, unless the delay was caused by reasons including but not limited to the following: proper detention for law enforcement purposes; strike or work stoppage; forwarding or return after the item was available for claim; incorrect ZIP Code™ or address; governmental action beyond the control of the Postal Service or air carriers; war, insurrection, or civil disturbance; delay or cancellation of flights; projected or scheduled transportation delays; breakdown of a substantial portion of the USPS transportation network resulting from events or factors outside the control of the Postal Service; or acts of God. See Mailing Standards of the United States Postal Service, Domestic Mail Manual (DMM®) 114.2.0, 214.3.0, 314.3.0, or 414.3.0. (The DMM is available at pe.usps.com.)

When a mailer submits a Priority Mail Express item requiring a signature and the Postal Service cannot deliver the item on the first attempt, the Postal Service leaves a notice for the addressee. If the addressee does not claim the item within 5 calendar days, the Postal Service returns the item to the sender at no additional charge.

Note: The Postal Service does not offer a guarantee for military or DPO shipments delayed due to customs inspections. Consult USPS.com® or your local Post Office™ for information on delivery commitments and Priority Mail Express Military™ or Priority Mail Express DPO™ services. For details, see the DMM, which is available at pe.usps.com.

Insurance Coverage: The Postal Service provides insurance only in accordance with postal regulations in the DMM, which is available at pe.usps.com. The DMM sets forth the specific types of losses that are covered, the limitations on coverage, terms of insurance, conditions of payment, and adjudication procedures. The DMM consists of federal regulations, and USPS personnel are not authorized to change or waive these regulations or grant exceptions. A mailer who requires information on Priority Mail Express insurance may contact the Postal Service before submitting an item. Limitations prescribed in the DMM provide, in part, that:

1. Insurance coverage extends to the actual value of the contents at the time of mailing or the cost of repairs, not to exceed the insured limit for the item.
2. The Postal Service insures the contents of Priority Mail Express "merchandise" items (with "merchandise" defined by postal regulations) against loss, damage, or missing contents up to $5,000 per item. Insurance coverage is not available for items valued at $500 or less, or up to $100 per item at no additional charge. The mailer may purchase additional merchandise insurance up to $5,000 per item. Additional insurance for Priority Mail Express items is not available unless a signature is required.

3. The Postal Service insures "nonnegotiable documents" (as defined by postal indemnity regulations) against loss, damage, or missing contents up to $100 per item for document reconstruction, subject to additional limitations for multiple pieces lost or damaged in a single catastrophic occurrence. Document reconstruction insurance provides reimbursement for the reasonable costs incurred in reconstructing duplicates of nonnegotiable documents mailed. Document reconstruction insurance coverage above $100 per item is not available. The mailer should not attempt to purchase additional document insurance, because additional document insurance is void.
4. The Postal Service insures "negotiable items" (defined by postal regulations as items that can be converted to cash without forgery), currency, or bullion up to a maximum of $15 per item.
5. The Postal Service does not provide coverage for consequential losses due to loss, damage, or delay of Priority Mail Express items or for concealed damage, spoilage of perishable items, and articles improperly packaged or too fragile to withstand normal handling in the mail.

Coverage, terms, and limitations are subject to change. For additional limitations and terms of coverage, consult the DMM, which is available at pe.usps.com.

Refund Claims: If delivery of a Priority Mail Express item does not meet the scheduled delivery commitment, the mailer may apply for a postage refund within 30 days after the date of mailing.

Indemnity Claims: Either the mailer or the addressee may file an indemnity claim for loss, delay, damage, or missing contents. The claimant may submit the claim online at usps.com, or by using PS Form 1000, Domestic or International Claim — for more information, see Publication 122, Customer Guide to Filing Domestic Insurance Claims or Registered Mail Inquiries. The timelines for claims are as follows: claims for loss or delay — no sooner than 7 days but no later than 60 days after the date of mailing; claims for damage or missing contents — immediately but no later than 60 days from the date of mailing. Retain the original customer copy of the Priority Mail Express label for claims purposes. For claims involving damage or missing contents, also retain the article, container, and packaging for Postal Service inspection when requested.

Please do not re-mail. Thank you for choosing Priority Mail Express service.

4. The Postal Service insures "negotiable items" (defined by postal regulations as items that can be converted to cash without forgery), currency, or bullion up to a maximum of $15 per item.
5. The Postal Service does not provide coverage for consequential losses due to loss, damage, or delay of Priority Mail Express items or for concealed damage, spoilage of perishable items, and articles improperly packaged or too fragile to withstand normal handling in the mail.

Coverage, terms, and limitations are subject to change. For additional limitations and terms of coverage, consult the DMM, which is available at pe.usps.com.

Refund Claims: If delivery of a Priority Mail Express item does not meet the scheduled delivery commitment, the mailer may apply for a postage refund within 30 days after the date of mailing.

Indemnity Claims: Either the mailer or the addressee may file an indemnity claim for loss, delay, damage, or missing contents. The claimant may submit the claim online at usps.com, or by using PS Form 1000, Domestic or International Claim — for more information, see Publication 122, Customer Guide to Filing Domestic Insurance Claims or Registered Mail Inquiries. The timelines for claims are as follows: claims for loss or delay — no sooner than 7 days but no later than 60 days after the date of mailing; claims for damage or missing contents — immediately but no later than 60 days from the date of mailing. Retain the original customer copy of the Priority Mail Express label for claims purposes. For claims involving damage or missing contents, also retain the article, container, and packaging for Postal Service inspection when requested.

Please do not re-mail. Thank you for choosing Priority Mail Express service.

Delivery Guarantee: If the mailer submits an item at a designated USPS® Priority Mail Express® acceptance location or a value of $500 or less, the Postal Service® will deliver or attempt delivery to the addressee or agent before the applicable time. The signature of the addressee or the addressee's agent is required upon delivery, when requested by the mailer. If the Postal Service does not deliver or attempt delivery by the specified time and the mailer files a claim for a refund, the Postal Service may refund the postage, unless the delay was caused by reasons including but not limited to the following: proper detention for law enforcement purposes; strike or work stoppage; forwarding or return after the item was available for claim; incorrect ZIP Code™ or address; governmental action beyond the control of the Postal Service or air carriers; war, insurrection, or civil disturbance; delay or cancellation of flights; projected or scheduled transportation delays; breakdown of a substantial portion of the USPS transportation network resulting from events or factors outside the control of the Postal Service; or acts of God. See Mailing Standards of the United States Postal Service, Domestic Mail Manual (DMM®) 114.2.0, 214.3.0, 314.3.0, or 414.3.0. (The DMM is available at pe.usps.com.)

When a mailer submits a Priority Mail Express item requiring a signature and the Postal Service cannot deliver the item on the first attempt, the Postal Service leaves a notice for the addressee. If the addressee does not claim the item within 5 calendar days, the Postal Service returns the item to the sender at no additional charge.

Note: The Postal Service does not offer a guarantee for military or DPO shipments delayed due to customs inspections. Consult USPS.com® or your local Post Office™ for information on delivery commitments and Priority Mail Express Military™ or Priority Mail Express DPO™ services. For details, see the DMM, which is available at pe.usps.com.

Insurance Coverage: The Postal Service provides insurance only in accordance with postal regulations in the DMM, which is available at pe.usps.com. The DMM sets forth the specific types of losses that are covered, the limitations on coverage, terms of insurance, conditions of payment, and adjudication procedures. The DMM consists of federal regulations, and USPS personnel are not authorized to change or waive these regulations or grant exceptions. A mailer who requires information on Priority Mail Express insurance may contact the Postal Service before submitting an item. Limitations prescribed in the DMM provide, in part, that:

1. Insurance coverage extends to the actual value of the contents at the time of mailing or the cost of repairs, not to exceed the insured limit for the item.
2. The Postal Service insures the contents of Priority Mail Express "merchandise"

items (with "merchandise" defined by postal regulations) against loss, damage, or missing contents. The Postal Service does not provide coverage for up to $100 per item at no additional charge. The mailer may purchase additional merchandise insurance up to $5,000 per item. Additional insurance for Priority Mail Express items is not available unless a signature is required.

3. The Postal Service insures "nonnegotiable documents" (as defined by postal indemnity regulations) against loss, damage, or missing contents up to $100 per item for document reconstruction, subject to additional limitations for multiple pieces lost or damaged in a single catastrophic occurrence. Document reconstruction insurance provides reimbursement for the reasonable costs incurred in reconstructing duplicates of nonnegotiable documents mailed. Document reconstruction insurance coverage above $100 per item is not available. The mailer should not attempt to purchase additional document insurance, because additional document insurance is void.
4. The Postal Service insures "negotiable items" (defined by postal regulations as items that can be converted to cash without forgery), currency, or bullion up to a maximum of $15 per item.
5. The Postal Service does not provide coverage for consequential losses due to loss, damage, or delay of Priority Mail Express items or for concealed damage, spoilage of perishable items, and articles improperly packaged or too fragile to withstand normal handling in the mail.

Coverage, terms, and limitations are subject to change. For additional limitations and terms of coverage, consult the DMM, which is available at pe.usps.com.

Refund Claims: If delivery of a Priority Mail Express item does not meet the scheduled delivery commitment, the mailer may apply for a postage refund within 30 days after the date of mailing.

Indemnity Claims: Either the mailer or the addressee may file an indemnity claim for loss, delay, damage, or missing contents. The claimant may submit the claim online at usps.com, or by using PS Form 1000, Domestic or International Claim — for more information, see Publication 122, Customer Guide to Filing Domestic Insurance Claims or Registered Mail Inquiries. The timelines for claims are as follows: claims for loss or delay — no sooner than 7 days but no later than 60 days after the date of mailing; claims for damage or missing contents — immediately but no later than 60 days from the date of mailing. Retain the original customer copy of the Priority Mail Express label for claims purposes. For claims involving damage or missing contents, also retain the article, container, and packaging for Postal Service inspection when requested.
